

Class Three Newsletter – 23.6.17

This Week...

We began our week with an inspirational assembly from Craig McCann, the paralympian. He explained how the diagnosis of a brain tumour had resulted in him having to relinquish his dream of joining the RAF. However, other doors were opened, and Craig has gone on to become a champion in both wheelchair fencing and trike-cycling. The message that Craig came to impart was one of embracing opportunities and being open to new ideas. This was very powerful and matched our Christian value of courage perfectly. The children did well with their circuit training and hopefully we will have raised plenty of money. We have written our non-chronological reports this week. The children used conjunctions as their grammar focus and produced really interesting reports on the life of Roman children. We have been telling the time in our maths, both on an analogue and digital clock. Some children have found this very difficult so any extra work on this at home would be beneficial. We will continue this in class too as telling the time is a life skill. The children have started their new Science topic looking at animals and their habitats, focusing this week on classifying animals that we found on the school field.

Our Bog-Eyed Jog is scheduled to take place on the morning of 6th July. Children will be allowed to come to school dressed in their pyjamas, dressing gowns and slippers (with appropriate footwear for going on the field). We recognise that this sponsored event is taking place soon after the Sports For Schools event which had unavoidably been postponed. All money raised from the Bog Eyed Jog will go towards buying new resources which will benefit all children in school. Any contribution, large or small will be greatly appreciated.

Next Week...

We will be beginning our final English unit of the year. The children have asked if we can do some more story writing so we will be reading and writing stories based around the book, 'Little Red' written by Lynne Roberts-Maloney. In our Maths work, the children will be looking at shapes. They will be making their own 3D shapes and recognising shapes in different orientations. They will also be working on the properties of these shapes. In our RE we shall look at the story of The Good Samaritan.
