

Class Three Newsletter 24/2/17

This Week...

Wow! We have had a great start to the new half term in Class 3. The children have adjusted so well to having me as their teacher and have made me feel so welcome. They have worked very hard and impressed me with their knowledge and willingness to learn. Let's keep up the momentum and let our lights shine brightly every day of every week!

We have started reading 'Stig of the Dump' as our class reader and have based all our English work on the book. We have written questions for the main characters, thought about their emotions and interactions with each other and written descriptions of the setting using prepositions.

In our Maths we have focused on multiplication and have been learning strategies which will make us more efficient with our calculating. There are some budding mathematicians in Class 3 - they keep me on my toes!

We re-enacted the Palm Sunday events in the Reflection Area and the children showed great compassion and understanding when considering the roles of the different characters.

Talk Time... Please talk about the times your child might feel happy or sad.

Important Dates...

W.b - 27.2.17 - Extreme English Week

2.3.17 - Dress Up Day - please do not go to great expense for this!

3.3.17 - 'Extreme Reading' Competition.

3.3.17 - Swimming

Don't forget...

Next week is 'Extreme English Week'. Everybody is invited to dress up as a book character on Thursday. Please consider our Christian ethos when choosing an outfit and we respectfully ask that children don't come dressed in Halloween type outfits or anything similarly inappropriate.

Don't forget - bring in your 'Extreme Reading' photo for the competition next Friday!

Special News!

Your child will need their swimming kit in school each Friday. They will only be permitted to wear goggles if you have sent back the letter sent out last half term.

Book Swap in Class Three will take place on Wednesday 1st March. Please send your child into school with a good quality book in good condition that they could swap for a different title.

Next Week...

We will continue to study 'Stig of the Dump' and find out more about the two main characters, Barney and Stig. We will be making bookmarks, writing book reviews, having a book swap, having a visit from an author and drawing our own illustrations to match stories told.

There is so much to look forward to!
