Class 5 Newsletter – Friday 21st October 2016

This Week

Despite the fact that it is nearly half-term, we are still working really hard and making wonderful progress with our learning. It has been wonderful to celebrate this with the children this week and I am thrilled with the quality of work we are producing. In English we have been researching the life and scientific discoveries of Charles Darwin so that we can write his biography next week. In Maths we have been learning about division and we have been solving practical problems both mentally and using formal methods. We have also enjoyed thinking about what a Super-Christian would be like!

Lola and Spencer did a fantastic class worship about courage this week. I would like to thank them for all their effort in getting it ready.
