This Week.....

In English we have been looking at the features of recounts. We have looked in particular at family celebrations and have even had our own mock wedding. We have taken lots of photos and will be writing an account of the class wedding next week.

We changed our focus for Maths this week and looked at subtraction and addition. We noted that subtraction (-) makes the original number smaller and addition (+) makes the original numbers bigger. The children used their knowledge of place value to write number sentences using their number bonds to 20.
