This Week

This week we have been honing some of our Writing skills and using expanded noun phrases with prepositions and modifying nouns. The children have been enjoying using the book, Escape from Pompeii as their stimulus. We have been applying our multiplication skills to problems in Maths and learning how to multiply large numbers by partitioning. We looked at the events of The Transfiguration in RE and picked out some of the main events in a painting by James B Janknegt. We wrote diaries in the role of Peter, James and John. We have also been loving using the glockenspiels in Music.

Roman Showcase

Next Tuesday, the 3rd February, parents and carers are invited into school from 1:45pm to work alongside your child making a Roman shield.

To make the shields, we need large pieces of card and we would appreciate any donations eg from large furniture or appliances, or even from the local supermarket.

Roman shields also featured a central iron boss (umbo) to deflect blows – empty yogurt pots or small tubs would work for this so we would also appreciate those.

The session will probably last about an hour and you are welcome to take your child home after the showcase. Siblings in school can also leave at the same time

Looking forward to seeing you on Tuesday!
