

Our Christian Value this week is-

Compassion

This Week

This week, we have reached the Writing stage of our English unit on Paddington. The children are using all their learning from the unit; inverted commas, subordinate clauses and expanded noun phrases, and writing their very own chapter about our lovely bear! In Maths, the children are tackling some tricky strategies with addition and subtraction. We tested the strength of different magnets in Science and created our own investigation. The button magnet definitely surprised us all! We have done some beautiful Paddington portraits in our Art and continued learning about David and his kingship in RE.

Learning Behaviour

At Lea Endowed, we pride ourselves on excellent manners and behaviour, however in recent weeks, staff have noticed how a few of our children in school are forgetting several of the basic manners and learning behaviours which are a non-negotiable at Lea Endowed. Children are expected to say "Please" and "Thank you", stand aside at gates and doors to let adults pass through, work and play collaboratively and always use kind hands and kind words.

They are asked to sit properly at their desks and dining table, use knives and forks when eating, and look at people when being spoken to. These things are not on the curriculum, but we are sure you agree that they are essential life skills, and equally important when considering what we want our children to achieve at school, and going forward as responsible citizens into the wider world.

Please talk with your child about the importance of these basic principles. Thank you ☺

Harvest Appeal for Burundi

Thank you for all your support towards our Harvest Appeal.

We are raising money to support the work of the Mothers' Union, helping women and girls to improve their skills in literacy and numeracy in Burundi.

We looked wonderful dressed in green, red and white, the colours of the Burundi flag – this event raised £174!

We loved our Sponsored Gardening, and have certainly impacted our corner of God's world in a positive way. Thank you for all your sponsor money so far – please send in any remaining sponsor money as soon as possible please; it will make a real difference to the people in Burundi.
