

Class 3 Round Up – 19.7.19

I cannot quite believe that I am writing the final newsletter of the year. Where has the time gone? May I start by saying how fabulous your children have been over this academic year and I hope you are as proud as I am with the progress each and every one of them has made, both socially and academically. I know that the Year 4 children are now ready for the step up to Upper Key Stage 2 - I will really miss them, especially having taught them for three years. They are precious and unique and I know that Mr Bateman will enjoy taking them forward on their journey.

We have had an action packed year in Class 3. We absolutely loved learning about Ancient Egypt in the Autumn term and the homework projects were fabulous! Our classroom was adorned with pyramids, mummies, cartouches and hieroglyphs - the children wrote fabulous diary entries in the role of Howard Carter and loved learning an Egyptian rap with Miss Wilson.

During Spring term, we really tested our resilience and team work on our amazing Borwick Hall Adventure Day. I loved seeing the children conquer their fears and try something new. Back in class, our topic on Volcanoes and Earthquakes was made more exciting when the children created papier mache volcanoes which actually exploded!

We have been blessed with gorgeous weather during the Summer term and it really put the extra sparkle into our annual Sports Day, our special Tree Party and all the lovely playtimes we have been able to spend on the field. We loved sharing our learning with you during our Mosaic Showcase and added this to all the other amazing creations we have made with Mrs Morris during our Art lessons this year.

As well as Borwick Hall, the children have been fortunate enough to experience a pantomime, a live theatre production, many visitors who have shared their wealth of knowledge with us, whole school family worships, Easter Activity Day, Bog Eyed Jog, Sponsored Silence/Nelson Mandela Day and Diary of a Disciple workshops....to name a few. They have raised money to help refugees and have supported many PTFA events such as the Christmas Fair, which all assist us in being able to provide the 'extras' which make their school lives so rich.

Finally, I would like to thank all of you for helping to nurture the link between home and school which benefits your children beyond measure. We hope you all have a lovely, happy, safe Summer with lots of rest, relaxation and fun times. Mrs Bolton, Mrs Morris and Miss Wilson x

Special News!

All the children have earned a certificate this week for completing the Bishop's Bible Challenge which we have been working on for most of the year. The children have really enjoyed going on a 'journey', discovering more about the Bible and the people within it.

The children have also been awarded with their Swimming certificate. Well done everyone!
