Learning this Week

In our RE studies, we have been exploring the role Angels took in the Nativity of the Lord, visiting the shepherds.

In Mathematics lessons we explored time, the number of minutes and hours in the day, and sequencing intervals of time.

In our English and Geography work we have been exploring the features of non-chronological reports and began researching information to write their own reports about penguins and polar bears.

In our Science work we have focused on researching the lifecycle of a butterfly and we have discovered a great deal about the lifecycle of Emperor penguins.

Learning next Week

In our RE studies, we will be exploring the relevance of the Nativity good news today, and how it is celebrated.

In Mathematics lessons we will be focusing on division and recalling multiplication and division facts for the x2, x5 and x10 tables.

In our English and Geography work we will be writing our own non-chronological reports and write their own reports or information - booklets about penguins and polar bears.

In our Science work we will be comparing the key features of familiar and unfamiliar animals and match baby and adult animals. We will also be finding out about the life of a polar bear cub.
