Summer Term – 7th May 2021

This Week

We have been doing our English assessments this week; using past SATs papers to check Reading comprehension, Spelling, Punctuation and Grammar. The children have risen to the challenge and tried their hardest. These assessments are useful as they help me to identify any gaps which we need to address in our final few weeks in Year 6. What they don't do is define who your children are; they are a snapshot, and I am busy letting ongoing high schools know about the truly unique and precious individuals they really are.

Extreme English Week

Next Thursday is a Dress Up day as part of our Extreme English Week.

Please choose a comfortable outfit which reflects a love of Reading or Writing. This can be really simple and put together using things you have at home already. Please do not feel any pressure to buy or make elaborate outfits.

Our Courageous Advocate this week is.....

Gladys Aylward

Gladys Aylward lived a life of never-ending love and brought peace and hope to many Chinese people, including leading 100 orphans to safety during the war.

What was the name of the orphanage set up by Gladys Aylward and Jeannie Lawson?

Our Christian Value for this week has been
Trust

God says...

Remember these four things:

1. I will make a way for you.
2. I'm fighting your battles.
3. Prayer is the best medicine.
4. Trust My timing.

Next Week

It is our Extreme English Week which means that we will be celebrating Reading and Writing in all subjects, as well as completing lots of different activities. We will also be having a socially distanced gathering with our buddies on Thursday, so we are praying for sunshine! Those children who are going to Ashton High School in September will be meeting Mrs Barrow, the Head of Year 7 on Tuesday as part of their transition. I know that she will be very impressed by their good attitude, willingness to learn and lovely Lea Endowed manners.
