What's going on this week?

Iceland are the smallest nation ever to qualify for the World Cup and will be looking to repeat their heroics from the 2016 European Championship, where they knocked out England. Iceland have spent a lot of their funding on promoting and encouraging football.

Things to talk about at home...

-  Will you be watching the World Cup football matches?
-  Do you think that the World Cup brings people together? Why?
-  It is thought that only one out of every hundred people didn't watch Iceland play one of their matches at the 2016 Euros. Why do you think this number is so high?
-  Out of the 20 World Cups so far, six have been won by the host country. Do you think this is a coincidence or do you think it might give the players confidence to play in their own country?
